

OPEN DATA

A world that is producing more and better data every year, gives an opportunity to contribute to this prioritization process with a data-driven solution. This enables us to collect datasources ranging from food and drought risk to socio-economic circumstances on a very geographically detailed level.

